Renewing the Mind ... Transforming the World

NEW IN 2010

We trust that this year has started out well for you. We would like to help with a variety of new and revised titles that we will be publishing in March and April, just in time for the home school buying season. Therefore, the March and April newsletters will focus on these new and revised titles.

FINDING A NEW LAND

We are particularly excited to announce a new reading book for the fourth grade entitled Finding a New Land. Christian Liberty Press publishes four different reading books for the fourth grade, including a collection of short stories entitled Boys and Girls of Colonial Days. While this book has served us well for many years, it was time to revise it. We decided, however to do more than simply give it a new cover or add a couple of new stories. We felt it was time to completely rework the book. Finding a New Land is the result.

Finding a New Land is almost twice as big as Boys and Girls of Colonial Days. While several stories from the original book are also found in Finding a New Land, the new title includes many others, including works of poetry and additional stories from a wider variety of authors. We have also included color illustrations and review exercises throughout the book. We have also created an answer key and a test packet that are both available for separate purchase.

ROBERT E. LEE, THE CHRISTIAN

Several years ago, Christian Liberty Press published a mass market paperback version of Robert E. Lee, the Christian by William J. Johnstone. After letting it lapse for a few years, we have brought it back as a trade paperback. This unique biography reveals the true source of Lee's personal integrity and greatness—his faith in Jesus Christ.

Our second edition has several attractive features. We have significantly improved the book's illustrations and readability. We believe you will find this new edition more appealing to your customers.

How to Study

Students often need help developing successful study skills. Several years ago, Christian Liberty Press published How to Study in order to help students in seventh grade and higher learn study skills that are useful across a variety of subjects.

We now have published a second edition of How to Study. This new edition has a new cover, new layout, and updated information. Both editions have the same price ($6.99.)

A small number of the original edition of How to Study are still available. If you still need some of the first edition, soon, order while copies are still in stock.

HOLDING THE LINE IN 2010

We are holding the line on the prices of CLP publications this year, there will NOT be a general price increase this year as happened in 2009. We are even maintaining our prices for this year's revised and second edition publications. The only exceptions to this policy are Robert E. Lee, the Christian and our Liberty Mathematics series (see the upcoming April newsletter for more information about our mathematics series).

FREE SAMPLES

We would be happy to send you a free sample of each of the titles featured in this month's CLP Review. Contact us by phone or e-mail (see Contact Us below) and request the sample(s) you desire. How to Study is already in stock and can be sent immediately. The other two titles should be available by the end of the month.
